Asserting that an attitude of aloofness exposes our foreign policy to the charge of timidity and ineffectiveness, the appeal declares that the United States should accept its full share of responsibility in bringing about a settlement of international problems. If the present drift in political disorders among nations continues, it is believed that a world war will be the result. The committee expressed the opinion that the program it was voicing the moral judgment of the American people. The remaining floor of the main structure has not yet come and this is causing some delay. It is expected that many offices will be occupied during the coming month.

Gas Price Takes a Two Cent Jump

Spring is coming. Gasoline has started its annual rise with the mercury in the thermometer—one of the surest signs that winter is over and that the demand for gasoline is increasing.
Motorists whose fuel supply was low this morning found the gas price indicators at the filling stations standing at 28 cents, a two-cent jump since last week when motor fuel rose from a quarter to twenty-six cents.
Enquiry made of one of the local gas dealers today revealed that the price is going up, probably on account of marketing conditions throughout the country. The dealer said that he would not be surprised to see a further increase inside of two or three weeks and that there would be other jumps, until the thirty-cent figure has been reached. This has been the experience noted here during the past few years, gasoline descending to the 25-cent level during the late autumn and winter and starting towards the higher figure towards the end of the winter.

The Danville street car service was about half an hour late getting started this morning and for an hour or so service was more or less interrupted on account of the delay in getting the cars started. The truth of the matter is, Mr. King said, the fireman overslept himself this morning and he got there about half an hour late and the less of time in getting up steam, caused the delay.
Under the circumstances, he continued, which made the situation unusual, something which has never happened before, which probably never will again, Mr. King explained that while the fireman who has suffered recently from grip was also late this morning, it

"I took the Marrowbone Tablets and they have done much good for me. We have used Munyon's remedies for years and consider them excellent medicines, as they always bring good results."

A. Y. Buck's Home and Roofing Shop Destroyed by Fire

A two-story wooden frame structure owned and occupied by A. Y. Buck and his family, and situated on the River road was completely destroyed by fire last night between 10 and 11 o'clock. The business headquarters of Mr. Buck, was a total loss. The owner could give no estimate of the loss last night. He said, however, that his household effects were partly covered by insurance but that none was carried on the building itself. The structure was located about a mile from the concrete bridge on the River road, leading to Schoolfield. The Danville fire department was notified by telephone, but although Fire Chief E. F. Mitchell went to the scene, it was held useless for the apparatus to go for the reason that there was no water supply, at the scene of the fire and it had gained such headway that chemicals would have been of little use.

The fire originated in a corner of the building in which a gasoline tank was situated. Mr. Buck and his family reside at the place and he also operates a roofing establishment and has a few gallons of gasoline put in the tank. Last night about nine o'clock was underfoot to draw some of the fluid from the tank, using an ordinary kerosene lamp to furnish him light. In some way a few drops of gasoline came in contact with the blaze of the lamp and a sudden flare-up followed, starting a fire which Mr. Buck immediately realized could not be coped with in a few moments. The corner of the building was in flames, and he and his family fled. Mr. Buck and his children vacated the house while his husband and a colored "mop" undertook to save some of the household effects but very little of the furniture could be gotten out before the fire reached the remainder of the house.

Mr. Buck intended putting the gasoline into a motor truck which stood in front of the house. Quick work was also necessary to get the machine out of danger. The few pieces of furniture removed from the house was badly damaged by the heavy downpour of rain at that time.

Mr. Buck some time ago operated a grocery store, but later decided to work for his trade as a tinner, and he established headquarters also retaining the place his residence.

After vacating his property and belongings go up in smoke Mr. Buck and his family, journeyed to town to spend the night with friends who offered them services.

A large number of residents of Danville who owned autos and who had seen the fire, gathered at the scene and when the fire had reached its height, a line of automobiles a quarter of a mile in length were parked along the roadside while the crowd stood in the rain watching the blaze.

Incidentally the high learning flames eating a doll and glow upon the waters of the Dan river, a fire against the low hanging clouds furnished a very pretty sight especially to persons who witness the scene from the concrete bridge.

Atlanta Debutantes Revolt Against Sunday Closing

(By The Associated Press)
ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 27.—A revolution has started here. Right away you think of heavily bearded individuals with red flags and bombs.

But forget that. The revolutionists here are pretty young girls, members of Atlanta's upper social circle. They are all debutantes who've "come out" officially this year and their collective will is expressed through their organization, the 1923 Debutante Club.

The city council has decreed there shall be no Sunday movies, theaters or cabarets here.

And that's what the revolution is about. The debutantes have started a move to annul the council's decree. "Any town with blue laws is a dead issue," they say. "To raise a community from a small town grown up to a real metropolis we've got to give folks fun on Sunday."

So, as a matter, the club under the leadership of the Misses Dorothy Dodd, Emily Davis and Irene Thomas, debutante hostesses, has petitioned the council for Sunday movies and baseball.

"Hundreds of new families would come to Atlanta if they could have fun on Sunday," declares Miss Davis.

DANVILLE BADLY IN NEED OF ENLARGED FACILITIES FOR ITS PUBLIC SCHOOL

Tentative Program Outlined—Bond Issue of $350,000 Advocated—Survey Has Been Made of the Situation

The Danville School Board has, for some years, been face to face with the proposition of inadequate facilities and equipment for handling the present school population and recent survey of the situation and a report after making a careful survey of the public school buildings white and colored and trumming estimates down so as to include only that which is absolutely essential, the committee reported that to finance a program of improvement and enlargement was absolutely necessary.

A committee was appointed with W. D. C. Harrison, chairman, to canvass the situation and make a report. After making a careful survey of the public school buildings white and colored and trumming estimates down so as to include only that which is absolutely essential, the committee reported that to finance a program of improvement and enlargement was absolutely necessary.

On hearing this report the school board has made up with the finance committee of the City Council and asked if the committee would recommend to council that a bond issue election be called. The finance committee replied that under the present tax rate of $1.19 per $100 a bond issue of $350,000 could not be financed. The committee, however, said that if the school board secured passage of a charter amendment allowing an increase in the present tax rate so as to pay the interest and retire the bonds that it would recommend to council that a bond issue election be held.

To this end a bill amending the present charter was drawn up. This bill would raise the tax rate not to exceed 20 cents on the $100 as the council sees fit, and provides that all funds derived from this increase be used only for school purposes, such as retiring the bond issue or for current school expenses.

It was pointed out that Danville now has the lowest tax rate of any city in the state and with an increase of 20 cents on the $100 the tax rate would make it $1.39, or still the lowest in the state.

The finance committee of council has already approved the tentative draft of the bill. It has been shown to the Hon. Joseph E. Anderson, Danville's member in the General Assembly, and he is favorable to the bill and will present it for action at the special session of the Legislature which convenes Wednesday. However, before action is taken on it by the Legislature the school board hopes to secure the approval of the City Council, and it will be presented to the body at its next meeting.

At the present time there are no schools in the city that is not overcrowded, and many of the buildings are badly in need of repair. There are obvious faults in lighting and ventilation and many other defects. In addition to this many of the teachers are underpaid. The whole situation calls for immediate action and this the school board is willing to take if a way to secure funds is provided.

The committee named to make a survey of the situation studied school conditions in this city from every angle and after careful consideration prepared a tentative outline of improvements and additions that were necessary.

It was found that the present High School building is inadequate to handle the enrollment, so over-crowded that efficient work cannot be accomplished. To meet this situation it is proposed to take over the Rison Park school for a High School, construct an additional building or add a wing to the present structure and improve the grounds and add to equipment. It is estimated that this improvement would cost $100,000, and would give to Danville a High School plant of which the citizens should be justly proud.

The present High School building would be converted into a grammar school. In order to do this and take care of present needs additional would have to be made that would cost in the neighborhood of $25,000. The Robert E. Lee school would also be enlarged and grounds would be bought and utilized as playground. Improvements here would cost $25,000.

The biggest and most glaring need is a new colored school on Holbrook street. The present building in addition to being over-crowded is in a deplorable condition of disrepair. It is proposed to build a new school here, build an addition to the colored school on the southern edge of the city and enlarge the colored school in North Danville. In this connection the school board is considering asking council to give it an option on the site of the present almshouse, this to be used either as a playground for the Holbrook street colored school or as a new school building. A new colored school would cost $75,000 and additions and enlargements would cost $10,000 more.

Improvement of a new school building the Bellview school is another big need. The present Bellview school structure will either have to be torn down and a new building erected or there will have to be made extensive improvements and additions. It is proposed to spend $100,000 on the three school buildings in North Danville. This includes white schools and the colored school.

At present there is a two-room school in North Danville, the building being rented. The board would either discontinue this school or build the structure to cost $10,000.

This program of improvements to the public school system of Danville will require just about $350,000 in all. This will naturally entail increased current expenses, all of which will have to be provided for.

"MERRY WIDOW" IS MERRY BILL AT THE MAJESTIC

"The Merry Widow" presented by Charles Worrell's Virginia Bell at the Majestic Theatre last night, proved a merry form of entertainment to the audience who witnessed the performance yesterday and last night. The opening program of the company, which began a week's engagement at that playhouse, is one filled with mirth and merriment from beginning to end. The fun begins with Bob Fagan in the role of a rube and the specialty went over good but it was the harmony singing which won the hearty approval of the audience. A lively chorus of pretty girls furnished added pep to the program.

In all it is an hour of varied entertainment well received by those who witness it, and well worth seeing. Change of program will take place on Wednesday and Friday.

STANDARD OIL FIGHTS CHARGES

(By The Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Four witnesses produced by the Standard Oil Company, of Indiana including its president and the chairman of the board, before the Senate Oil Investigator Committee today in rebuttal of charges that the company had conspired to fix prices of oil.

Dr. W. M. Burton president and R. V. Stewart, chairman of the board of the Standard of Indiana, John M. Cason president of the Tarran Refining Company of Chicago and E. S. Hughes, former vice president of the Western Petroleum Company, all came to the Senate to deny the charges. Portions of the testimony given by Burton before the committee two weeks ago to the effect that the Standard of Indiana had fixed prices of oil, was read before the committee.

Dr. Burton branded as "absolutely untrue" testimony by Mr. Black that he as president of the Standard of Indiana promised to give the Standard Petroleum Company considerable business as oil brokers if Mr. Black would take care of his step-son, Mr. Hughes. He further denied that the Standard of Indiana gave Mr. Black advance information as to changes in the price of crude oil and gasoline.

PEACE WARRANTS ISSUED AGAINST YOUNG ATLANTANS

(By The Associated Press)
ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 26.—Peace warrants were issued here today for J. E. Hughes, former vice president of the Standard of Indiana, and four other men charged with conspiracy to fix prices of oil.

The four men had not been served with the warrants late today although officers had endeavored several hours to locate them. The men are now under bonds of $200 each and appear in police court next Saturday to answer charges of disorderly conduct preferred by Davis.

Davis reported to the police Saturday that he had been beaten and forced to leave the scene of the riot before he could get away. He was alleged by the four men, insulted her at a dance. He denied the accusation, admitting, however, that during the dance he gave vent to an oath, but it was not directed at the young woman.

JEALOUSY OVER FINDING TOMB OF KING TUT

(By The Associated Press)
CHICAGO, Feb. 26.—Bringing the first eyewitness story of the opening of the tomb of King Tutankhamun, the son of Dr. James H. Breasted, son of Dr. James H. Breasted, Egyptianologist and the first to open the tomb at Luxor, which the excavation which unearthed the ancient resting place of the monarch, returned to Chicago today.

Mr. Breasted declared that much strife and ill-feeling are being engendered among nations and individuals over the finding of the priceless treasures.

"The excavators who found the tomb probably will not get one of the articles they found," he said. "The whole thing has been woefully mismanaged. Under an old treaty England was given the right by the French to carry on the excavations in search of the tomb. Now the French are jealous of the find made by the British."

The minister in charge of Egypt some time ago has an order issued that the English Egyptologists could have half of all the treasures they found. The present minister now is attempting to get a law through so that the excavators can have nothing. This probably will result in the work being stopped and the Metropolitan Museum expedition there is expected to be recalled.

"The Englishmen who found King Tut's tomb probably will get little or nothing except possibly a gift of some kind from the French government. The weight of public opinion will very likely result in all the treasures being placed in a museum at Cairo or Luxor."

"It probably will require another year to remove all the articles from King Tut's tomb. They do not know how many chambers there are to open. I left before the opening of the work where his body was supposed to be located. The excavators have no desire to be 'grave robbers'."

The mummy of the king probably will be undisturbed but the antiquities will be placed in a museum.

ASHEVILLE, N. C., Feb. 26.—Mrs. Clara Earnest whom Charles Gash of Asheville, N. C., is alleged to have sent a letter containing poison to administer to her husband, has been charged with the crime of poisoning her husband. She is alleged to have sent a letter to Claude V. Brown, postal inspector who returned today from Alabama where he questioned Mrs. Earnest concerning this case.

Inspector Brown also questioned Levi Earnest, the husband who reiterated his story of a vision which warned him of the plot.

Gash is at liberty under bond, charged with violation of the postal laws.

SCHOOL HAS NEW U. S. FLAG

Washington's birthday exercises at Rison Park school last Thursday were marked by presentation by the pupils to Mrs. J. M. Holcomb, principal, of a new United States flag which was raised on the flagstaff immediately after the conclusion of the exercises in the auditorium. After the program and opened with an introduction given by Kert Harris, son of the early life of Washington were delivered by Alice Heard, Catherine Rogers, Ruby Davis and Alexander Trier. The school's band, led by Byron Tate, directed by James Shofner, Spencer James and Perry Gaver.

Rhythmic exercises by the school were followed by a story of the flag by Margaret Motley and Frances Wertz after which an effective flag drill was given under the supervision of George Heald, the school's physical director.

The flag donated by the student body was next delivered to the school principal by Mrs. Cordeia Penn who, after extemporizing on all it stands for in the life of the nation said:

"This flag has been given to the school by the boys and girls who assemble in its classrooms each day for the purpose of receiving the training that shall make them the men and women of tomorrow—useful and honorable citizens and of the great Republic whose flag we now honor. Therefore, in the name of the pupils of the school I present this banner to the Rison Park school with the loving wishes of all who have had a part in this service."

Mrs. Holcomb gracefully accepted the emblem after which James Burton recited "The Flag Goes By."

Gathering a short while later in the school grounds the children took the pledge of allegiance to the flag and saluted it as it was raised. A stanza from "The Star Spangled Banner" brought the exercises to a close.

Cigar Ashes Won't Bother Wifey Now

Invention Prevents Musing Up Floors—Lighted End Handled Safely—Comb Dyes Milady's Hair.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—A cigar that drops no ashes on the parlor carpet, that refuses to burn the edge of the desk, that can be handled at the lighted end.

An attachment to a rocking chair that makes palm leaf fan waft cooling breezes over the occupant in time to the rocking.

An aluminum comb that washes, dries and dyes feminine locks.

A typewriter weighing only one pound and to be carried around in the vest pocket.

A police and fire alarm system attached to the telephone and worked with a talking machine record.

People of America may be using these queer devices in a few years. At least their inventors hope so and have taken the first steps toward showing them to the public.

I found them all on view today at the inventions show at the Grand Central Palace. The exhibition has attracted thousands of the curious during the week.

So many odd things I never saw before, brain children of men and women from every section of this country, from Italy, Canada, Japan, Spain and France. And all with their creators explaining them to prospective investors.

I asked a gray haired man from Connecticut how he happened to make the keep cool appliance.

"Well, I tell you," he said. "Near tragedy brought me to it. My wife was in a hospital and an electric fan turned on her almost caused her death. I realized that the gentle wafting of an old palm leaf produced without effort should cause just the right amount of breeze for anybody. So I worked out this thing."

The aluminum comb with perforations along the teeth and supplied with hot and cold water or the preservative shade of hair coloring is the very thing to give milady a quick shampoo or treatment, the inventor, a negro man, assured me.

And the little typewriter, ade for light home use and amateurs, caught my eye. The thing looks like a top, but the man behind it declares it really works.

Then there were scores of other articles at the exhibition, interesting irrespective of their future success or failure. Here are some of them:

A milking strap designed to keep old bossy's tail out of the milkmaid's face; a seat in which a window washer can swing precariously but comfortably; an automobile shoe for getting the car out of the snow and ice; a clothes dryer fixed to the kitchen boiler; a gas cut-off to prevent accidental or intentional asphyxiation; a snap link o keep cuff buttons in; an odorless garbage can; a mechanical arm that saws wood, lifts loads and picks up pins.

There were also a dustless ash truck; a chimney cleaning apparatus; a motor that runs a phonograph and a piano at the same time; a self winding, self starting talking machine; an electric mouse-trap; a telephone receiver holder to give free use of both hands; a washless water faucet; a pattern for a suit of clothes and extra trousers out of material ordinarily required for the suit alone, an ice box drip pan that rings a bell when full to the brim; a self disinfecting broom; a billiard cue that chalks itself; and a heating system for houses that does away with chimneys.

"saw me," ejaculated an old lady standing at the chemical fireless cooker booth, "what are we a'comin' to?"

Would Reimburse Ex-Commissioner

(By The Associated Press.)

RALEIGH, N. C., Feb. 27.—By unanimous vote the House today passed a resolution introduced by Speaker Dawson providing for the reimbursement of A. D. Watts, former commissioner of revenue in the amount of $5,800 which Mr. Watts paid into the treasury on failure of the Commercial National Bank of Wilmington when he had deposited that sum of state money. The resolution was opposed by the Republicans. Supporters of the resolution said that inasmuch as Mr. Watts had deposited the amount in a local bank company to take over the policies of the Niagara Life Insurance company,

BYRD PREDICTS A GAS TAX FOR STATE ROAD BUILDING

(Special to The Bee.)

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 27.—Today sentiment is much stronger for the position of the Governor for the consideration of special rather than general measures than by the legislators was thought possible, and it now appears that the legislators may set down to business in shape and limit proceedings to local measures, those of a constructive nature the road matter, the State office building and the redistricting bill.

"According to the information in my hands, and I consider it reliable, there will be twenty-five votes in the Senate against the bond bill," said Senator Harry F. Byrd, of Winchester. "I do not think there will be any question regarding the passage of the gasoline tax bill, for if we are to have money for roads, it will have to come from that source."

"There appears to be no reason to doubt that the majority in House will be larger against the bond bill than it was last year," said Delegate George B. Keesell, of Rickingham. "We have a few votes and we have gained others as to the gasoline tax bill. I do not know what to say about the final outcome of that contest."

The sentiment of the voters of the State on the policy of bonds for road work will be taken in the fall election. The voters to instruct their local men in every instance rather than to have the matter tested by the State at large when it would have no force or effect. By district instructions the will of the voters will govern the individual members.

'Cello's 4 Feet Tall; She's 3, Yet She Is Musical Prodigy

THISBY SCHWARTZ AT THE CELLO

By JOSEPHINE VAN DE GRIFT

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—Thisby is three feet high. The cello is four.

But Melzar Chaffee, director of the music school settlement over on New York's crowded East Side, says that five-year-old Thisby Schwartz will some day conquer the cello and become one of the world's accomplished musicians. She has, he says, both talent and determination as witness the following indications:

One day, while the neighborhood children were busily engaged in a game of "keeping house," Thisby trundled over to the music school settlement and announced her intention of becoming a musician.

Asked what instrument she preferred

she stated she would follow her big brother's example and play the cello. Teachers showed her a small violin, a silver cornet, a bright new triangle. It was all unavailing; Thisby stuck to her choice.

Now she can hold the bow and her plump fingers can cover three of the strings. Teachers have supplemented this accomplishment with lessons in ear training and rhythmic dancing.

In the meantime Thisby is waiting to grow.

She is the youngest of 850 children in the school started nearly 30 years ago by Miss Emma Wagner, who gave music lessons at five cents apiece to the music-hungry children of the East Side.

Good Morning Judge!

A free-for-all, that is, for every one who happened to be in the house, was staged yesterday afternoon at a dwelling on lower Broad street, occupied by Nellie Frye, colored, but from all appearances was also the place of abode for many others. Who have no business there. Fines were meted out to the participants in the fight this morning in the police court. John Lee Anderson was fined $11 and costs for being drunk and disorderly and an additional fifteen dollars for assaulting George T. Young, who in turn drew an eleven dollars and costs fine for being drunk. Nellie Frye also had partaken of too much mean white lightning, for she was also very disorderly and drew a fine of $11 and costs. Nothing could be proven against Clarence Douglas and the warrant against him was dismissed. However, he and Anderson are being held for an alleged assault on County Officer T. C. Oakes. Anderson does not deny the charge but Douglas, who gives the description denies he is the man, informing the police if they would go to his brother, Cardell's house, they would find the right man there.

Police officers received the call yesterday afternoon and Officer O. Cook responded. Before he had time to reach the scene, another call came and the person on the other end of the wire said "send the whole force." Sergeant J. L. Edwards and Officer F. G. Towell hurried to the scene to aid Cook. When they found the fight was over, but they found evidence aplenty that there had been a general rough house. Every window pane in the house was smashed, not a piece of furniture was in its correct position, some of it being splintered, and a stove was turned upside down. The entire party was placed under arrest and carried to the police station. The officers also brought table legs and other small fragments of the furniture, some of which was splintered with blood and exhibited these to other officers as evidence of the free-for-all.

Then aside from all this the negroes are said to have illegally taken possession of the house, J. L. Graveley, who owns the house, said that recently the rightful tenants moved out and that he happened to be in the neighborhood a few days ago and found Nellie Frye in charge with every room occupied by men and women. Mr. Graveley said he wanted them to vacate the place but they have failed to heed his orders. The mayor this morning notified the negroes that unless they came up the house immediately, warrants charging them with trespass would be issued.

Pistols Land Him in Trouble.

Furness seems to be a trouble-maker for James Allen, colored. He was arrested yesterday for carrying a concealed weapon. Police officers took a handsome $22 revolver from him. The officers originally charged him with the larceny of the pistol. He drew a fine of thirty dollars and costs for having the gun. He was then tried for stealing the gun from James Jenkins, colored. Jenkins stated that Allen stole the pistol from him in Reidsville. Allen explained that he loaned Jenkins a dollar on the gun during a "skin" game. Jenkins did not deny this but stated that when he went to give Allen the money back and secure the pistol again, the latter drew the weapon on him and declined to let him have it. Jenkins paid Allen the dollar in court, the pistol was turned over to him, and the case against Allen dismissed.

"Is that all we have against Allen," inquired the mayor.

"No," replied the officers, "he is charged with stealing another pistol, but the case was evidently not ready for trial, for it was not called."

More Reefers.

But Powell and Horace Hairston, colored, were placed under bonds of $100 each for their good behavior towards each other for twelve months, after the hearing of a warrant against Hairston sworn out by Powell charging him with continuing assault and threats on his life. Powell testified that ever since he caused Hairston's arrest some time ago, the latter has been making every effort to attack him and that he was forced to leave and return to his home under guard of two other men and even at that he dared not come the front way, but

Hunt For Marsino, Swindler, Spreads Over 2 Continents

Former Barber, Who Found It More Profitable to Vio-
timize Banks, Believed to Be in Mexico.

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Joseph E. Marsino, former barber, sought as a wrecker of financial institutions, became the subject yesterday of an international chase. Detectives believe he escaped to Canada or Mexico or sailed for South America.

Steamships for South American ports have been ordered watched. F. Robb of the Burns Agency said last night the concern had not a trace of the defaulter. He was convinced Marsino had fled to Mexico.

Several years ago, after robbing the Bank of Peris, Cal., Marsino went to Mexico City, where safe from extradition, he lived at ease in the Regis hotel. He is familiar with several parts of Mexico and could hide there for months without being identified.

The tedious work of straightening out as far as possible the tangled finances of Marsino's wrecked companies is progressing. State Superintendent of Insurance Stoddard said last night he had approved the plan for the Metropolitan Life Insurance company to take over the policies of the Niagara Life Insurance company, left $210,000 short by Marsino. Mr. Stoddard signed the agreement late Saturday night.

Many Niagara policyholders are now too old for original insurance. The Metropolitan will continue the policies on their original conditions, assuming responsibility for all claims originating after last night Wednesday.

Mr. Stoddard said the Niagara's affairs were left in such shape its assets were insufficient to pay even its debts, much less guarantee surrender value to policyholders. No medical examination is necessary in transferring policies from Niagara to the Metropolitan, he said.

Burns agents, according to Mr. Robb are expecting to clear up this week the disposition of about $200,000 in bonds and other securities, part of the $215,000 Marsino stole from the First National Bank at Warren, Mass. It was said yesterday these bonds were being traced to innocent buyers.

The full force of Marsino's duplicity has just begun to make itself felt in Warren. Checks being returned marked "payment refused" has brought home to many depositors a realization that their savings have been wiped out. The town has fully realized the tragic significance of a community of 4,000 losing $215,000.

Marsino is caused freely and there is condemnation for Frank L. Taylor, President of the bank, now under arrest in Chicago. There was some criticism at first for the directors for letting Taylor, now considered the ex-barber's tool, get control. But this subsided when the losses of the directors became known.

STAGE SUPPORT COST AUSTRIA HEAVY SUM

VIENNA, Feb. 26.—The financial support given by Austria to the national theatre and the national opera is so measurably to the state's deficit, that two methods of possibly stopping these losses are being considered. One is to lease the theatres, and the other is to reform them.

Each has its opponents. Present day actors and employees claim to be different, but assert, nevertheless, that reform is impossible because the present system is not unpopular with certain bureau chiefs in authority. The idea of leasing does not disturb the actors, for one man's money is as good as another's to them.

But the numerous theatrical pensioners who are now living on the state are loath in their opposition to any change; the lessees might not guarantee the continuance of their stipends.

The government department for the administration of the theatre and the opera number 31 persons. The theatre employees number 260 on the stage and 1,000 in the orchestra, while the opera has 600 persons on the stage, supported by 257 behind the scenes. These salary lists, in addition to the amount paid out in pensions, caused a deficit last year of 15 billion crowns in paper money.

MUTINY ABOARD SHIP SMASHED

(By The Associated Press.)
MANILA, Feb. 26.—An incident aboard the Russian refugee ship Magnit at Mariveles Quarantine Station was smashed before it got well under way last night by the ship's officers and a detachment of Philippine constabulary.

Members of the ship's company, discontented with their rations, obtained five cabins belonging to the officers and planned to seize the vessel. The officers discovered that the men were plotting and notified constabulary headquarters. When a constabulary detachment arrived the plotters threw the cabin into the water tank and fled. They were rounded up and it was announced that the Russian officers would ask the Philippine authorities to deport the ringleaders to Russia.

Farm Journalists In Session; Three Officials Speak

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Secretaries Weeks, Denby and Davis and William Alwood of Greenwood, Va., were the chief speakers today before the American Agriculture Editors Association which began a week's convention here.

The cabinet members explained the interests of their departments which coincide with those of the farmers and urged cooperation among the editors of the press of the benefits being made available to them through activities and experiments of the army, navy and labor forces.

Secretary Weeks, in addition to citing the various ways the army aids agriculture in its peace time work, pointed out that "there is much in common in the two modes of life," since in both there is the outdoor spirit and the tendency towards isolation. This tendency, he said, "perhaps explained the fact that the army is so largely recruited from the rural districts of the country. The West Point who return to civil life take up farming pursuits than any other calling."

"The farmer, as well as any other citizen," the war secretary declared, "should learn the national defense is no abstract theory evoked by a class foreign to his own interests, but a duty to all of us."

Success of America's experiment in government, Secretary Weeks asserted, depends on the retention of "common sympathies" by all classes in the country.

Secretary Davis of the Labor Department told the editors more than all the alien illegals in this country through smuggling operations and violations of the seamen's act if they could be found, and advocated a law compelling enrollment of all alien laborers in this country.

Citing contentions that this would bring about an espionage system, he declared, on the contrary, it would enable the government to help desirable aliens to an understanding of their life and conditions in the United States. He also favors compulsory education for adult as well as minor aliens and opposed any move to lower the bars to general immigration.

The Labor secretary told the editors he intended to draft a bill embodying what he described as "selective immigration" and the enrollment and educational features he advocated.

The building up of an American merchant marine was urged by Secretary Denby as a means of keeping foreign markets for products of the United States after the restoration of normal conditions in Europe when he pointed out that competition in commerce will begin.

The navy secretary also explained the function of the navy in keeping open the shipping lanes for commerce, in developing friendship abroad through humanitarian work, in its peace time efforts, an in protecting the Monroe doctrine. The Navy at its present strength, he said, costs the farmers an average of 25 cents each year to maintain. Reduction of the personnel from 85,000 to 67,000 as recently sought in Congress, he added would have destroyed the navy's efficiency at a saving of only 2-1/2 cents on the part of each farmer.

Mr. Alwood, of former publisher of agricultural papers and a fruit grower of Virginia, described a recent tour of Argentina and the resources of that country.

Join Procession of Tied and Dyed

(By MARGORY WELLS)
STOLEN from an ancient fabric—some one took the hint—and now we have tied and dyed fabrics in our closets, on our walls, and in our house decorations. Every where we go we see them and no two are alike.

That is the beauty of tied and dyed work. One piece can never be like the next, because it is original hand work and, although it is ever so simple to do once you understand the trick, one piece never turns out exactly like the last, and when you diligently you may try to make it so.

The appearance of a tied and dyed fabric is of a pattern that makes a swirl of one color or of several colors and the pattern can be repeated and definitely to make an all-over design.

The process goes like this: You take a knot of the material—as much as you want to dye—and let that stick out in a little bunch. Then you wind the silk that you wish to remain as it is with a succession of string swirls—that is, you wind the string quite tightly around the material, one row after the other, until you have covered the whole piece with a completely tight little drops of dye can get through the interstices. Now you can see that you can leave as much silk exposed as you wish and tie up the rest and dip the whole thing into the dye. Then when you have removed the silk from the dye, let it dry and have taken off the windings of string, you have made for yourself a pattern that will rival any of the popular printed and dyed silks. So much more valuable because it has been done by hand and by your hands.

It is better to use the silks of lighter tones for your foundation materials, as then you can add dyes of deeper colors and get your effect by the contrast of one color against the other and with one dipping of the dye. However, if you wish to dye with more than one color, then tie the string around all of the portions except these little places that you want to come out, say red. Then take off parts of the string, exposing those places that should be dyed black and, again, tie up the red places that have already been dyed.

Tied dyeing is lovely when it is done on chiffon. This is a chiffon hat, as then you can add dyes of deeper colors and get your effect by the contrast of one color against the other and with one dipping of the dye. However, if you wish to dye with more than one color, then tie the string around all of the portions except these little places that you want to come out, say red. Then take off parts of the string, exposing those places that should be dyed black and, again, tie up the red places that have already been dyed.

Then take off parts of the string, exposing those places that should be dyed black and, again, tie up the red places that have already been dyed.

It was in India that this art of dyeing originated many hundreds of years ago and it is as good today as it was then, with no change in the process having been added to its accomplishment.

Some girls who like to do the tied and dyed process more intricately are copying the antique stuffs that are more carefully done. They tie little buttons to the spots that they want when they get a design at that spot which is a trifle more interesting than when the material is just held into a little bunch and left as it is dipped into the dye.

Then there is a quick process—used notably for the Deauville scarfs. The corners are knotted tightly and these are dipped into the dye. Then when the square is left to dry and unknotted there is an irregular design in each corner that is as interesting as can be, and as one corner's pattern extends into that of the neighboring corner it makes a design that is united in one all the way around the square.

You can make curtains by this process using nothing more valuable than unbleached muslin for the material to be dyed. The fact is that the ancients who discovered the process usually did their upon cotton as silks were much too valuable to be used promiscuously.

Ribbons, when they are of the softest of textures, are dyed in this manner to make lovely and becoming sashes or trimmings for hats. Squares of soft silk dyed thus are used for lamp shades. Blouses of tied and dyed silk or cotton are extremely fashionable this season, and in fact there is nothing used by women for the decoration of her persons or her home which cannot be interpreted by the tied and dyed method.

SIX TAPESTRIES WOVEN ABOUT 1450 CAUSE INQUIRY

(By The Associated Press.)
NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Six tapestries woven about 1450 for the Duke of Burgundy, which recently were made the subject of an official inquiry in Paris, are hanging in the home of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., the New York Evening Post said it had learned today.

According to the newspaper, the tapestries were shown in the Anderson Galleries here last November, and admission was made to the public only on the third day the tapestries were suddenly withdrawn without explanation and it was understood they had been purchased by an Anderson collector for $1,460,000.

Although something of a mystery was made of the matter at the time, no general interest was aroused in the disappearance of the tapestries, which were considered some of the finest in France—after a time rested for years in the castle of V. Terf, the seat of the La Roche-Foucauld family, passed last fall through the customs in the regular manner.

Gaston Lebert, French consul-general, declared that he had not attended the private view here, and later had read dispatches describing the agitation in Paris, but had received

Will Not Act On Court Plan This Session

(By The Associated Press.)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—Possibility of Senate action before Congress adjourns next Sunday on the administration's request for authority to participate in The Hague International Court of Justice under the League of Nations was removed through conference today between Senate leaders.

Preliminary to tomorrow's meeting of the Foreign Relations Committee for initial consideration of the plan, submitted last Saturday, leaders of administration and Senate exchanged views and it was said, all were of the opinion that the matter would have to go over until the next Congress. Judgment was general that the few days remaining of the present session were totally inadequate to bring about any decisive step on such an important matter.

Intense interest among Senators in the administration proposal was manifested by a flood of statements. Those from Democratic leaders indicated favor for the plan, but there was a pronounced hostile note from the "irreconcilable" camp and the complete absence of public endorsement from the administration and "reservationist" groups.

Senator Johnson of California, prominent in the irreconcilable issue, issued a statement critically of the administration's proposal and declaring the United States would not go into the League. "If," said Senator Johnson, "we now do what is asked the situation is this:

"We are in part of the league. By reservations we are out of the part of the league we are in. The part of the administration proposal which we reserve we get out functions as a part of the league without our assistance. In the language of a great editor of the west, all of which is partly true.

"We are not going into the League of Nations at this session of Congress," Senator Johnson asserted.

Democratic endorsement of the administration plan, however, was accompanied by jibes at the alleged reversal of the administration policies. The action Democratic leader, Senator Robinson of Arkansas issued a statement declaring initial friendliness for the administration proposal but adding that it manifested "timidity and half-heartedness, and constituted a repudiation of the policy of non-participation in European affairs."

Similar statements were issued by other Democrats and Senator King, Utah offered a resolution to carry out the administration's request without discussion.

Senator Swanson of Virginia, who will be ranking Democrat on the foreign relations committee in the next Congress, issued a statement commending the administration design.

"I am glad to note," said he, "that the administration has at least reached a conclusion that it is necessary for the United States to abandon its policy of isolation."

Declaring he regretted the "timidity displayed by the President and Secretary of State in not presenting their recommendations to the Senate."

Senator Swanson predicted a battle on the administration plan a forecast that was confirmed privately by administration as well as "irreconcilable" leaders.

Administration leaders, in informal conferences today agreed that the President's request would not die, like a bill or resolution with the adjournment of Congress but was a continuing matter which would come up automatically again in the new Senate.

Neither Republican nor Democratic leaders appeared inclined to proceed upon the basis outlined in Secretary Hughes' letter and promises of a flood of reservations were made from all sides.

Administration spokesmen said that the Foreign Relations Committee had received of enough votes to prevent committee action tomorrow or any time before the next Congress.

The administration proposal, has been endorsed by the Federal Council of Churches which appealed to the Senate in messages sent today to each

PLEAD GUILTY TO VIOLATING BLUE SKY LAW

(By The Associated Press.)
WINSTON-SALEM, Feb. 26.—Four men, representing themselves as agents of the Western Ranch Company of Oklahoma, left here today after pleading guilty to violating the North Carolina "blue sky" law and paying fines of $150 each. In addition they got suspended sentences of 18 months each on the state road, the sentences to be served if they are found in this state within the next two years.

The men gave their names as R. E. Smith, J. C. Kelly, R. R. Hodgkin and T. C. Campbell, and it was said their residence is Poteau, Oklahoma.

Evidence brought out at a hearing in municipal court was to the effect that they had closed three contracts for government lands in Oklahoma with Winston-Salem residents, and on order of the court, the signed contracts were returned and the purchasers refunded.

The four men were traveling in a special Pullman car handsomely equipped and left in late today.

BE CAREFUL WHAT YOU WASH YOUR HAIR WITH

Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali which is very injurious, as it dries the scalp and makes the hair brittle.

The best thing to use is Mulsified coconut oil shampoo, for this is pure and entirely greaseless. It is very cheap and beats anything else all to pieces. You can get Mulsified at any drug store, and a few ounces will last the whole family for months.

Two or three teaspoonfuls of Mulsified in a cup of glass with a little warm water is all that is required. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub the Mulsified coconut oil in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, cleanses thoroughly and rinses out easily. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and is soft, fresh looking, bright, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage. Besides, it loosens and takes out every particle of dust, dirt and dandruff. Be sure your druggist gives you Mulsified.—adv.

Ask your druggist for 3c Dr. Bell's. Refuse substitutes. Insist on Dr. Bell's.

Your Telephone Bills

It is probably no particular joy to anyone to receive a bill of any kind. And if the bill is inaccurate or vague or carelessly made up, the matter may be decidedly annoying.

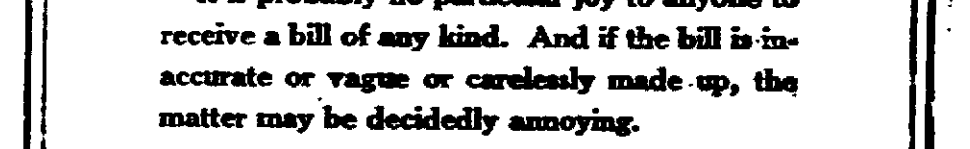

The rendering of bills for telephone service, including long distance calls, for Virginia's thousands of subscribers is quite a task.

It requires system and organization and training to get it done accurately, intelligently and on time, month after month.

Occasionally an error does occur. And when it does, the Company stands ready to make prompt and satisfactory adjustment.

If you will call such matters to our attention either by telephone, in person or in writing, they will have our best attention.

"Red Patrons" Are Angles To Russian Army

MOSCOW, Feb. 26.—The "patronage system," a practice which originated in Russia a little more than a year ago as a by-product of the new economic policy, has become so general that virtually every organization in the country strong enough to stand on its own legs and with a little substance to spare has taken under its wing some other organization or group, the "patron" assumes weighty and expensive responsibilities. At present the play is applied principally to the army.

"Patrons" Are Lavish
Fifty bottles of wine were broken one night recently in the Continental Hotel for the fifth anniversary feast of the soldiers who protect the Kremlin. The All-Russian Central Executive Committee is the patron of this army unit and provided the feast, which is one of hundreds which take place all over Russia wherever units of the army or fleet are stationed. Prior to the inauguration of the new economic policy all the needs of the soldiers were met by the Government, but with the introduction of regular payments for the soldiers and in consequence of the general change in the internal economy of the country a necessity arose for some more particular care for the soldiers.

Not only the principal government institutions but the trusts and the factories became patrons of units of the army. Publicity and the pressure of public opinion readily induced any "highway" institution to play the game. Some army units accumulated several patronages and lived very well. Occasionally an enterprise unit would adopt some prominent leader as a patron with a resulting benefit to its commissary.

Officially Sponsored
The obligations of the Red Patrons are set forth in a decree of the All-Russian Central Executive Committee, published by Kalmun. They must supply the material and cultural needs of their respective units, including improvement of quarters, heating, lighting, mattresses, sheets, blankets, bath, laundry, barber shop and other sanitary measures. They must supply the army schools, clubs and libraries; they must assist the military co-operatives and aid in the liquidation of literacy in the young army and fleet. On the day of the celebration of the anniversary at the close of which the central executive committees of the Soviets throughout Russia are to take part in the organized concerts and shows, bringing in the working men and women to associate themselves with the soldiers. They are to see that the invalids are brought to the feast, and those of pre-military age (the recruits) and the demobilized are to be invited. Finally, the requisite number of seats in the theatres and kiosks are to be supplied.

Reaches Other Orders
The institution of Red Patrons has extended beyond the army. The organization at the close of which the central executive committees of the Soviets throughout Russia are to take part in the organized concerts and shows, bringing in the working men and women to associate themselves with the soldiers. They are to see that the invalids are brought to the feast, and those of pre-military age (the recruits) and the demobilized are to be invited. Finally, the requisite number of seats in the theatres and kiosks are to be supplied.

May Reach Farmers
Recently the need of additional seed for the Spring planting caused the Government to propose the application of this principle of patronage in this direction. While 21,000,000 pounds has been provided there is demand for half as much again. From Siberia, from Khirghes, from the Ukraine and from the Southeast seed will be sent to the Government seed plant which certain districts to become patrons of others where the harvest has been meagre, and to take the responsibility of fully meeting their requirements.

U. S. Is Making Big Strides In South America

WASHINGTON, Feb. 26.—The United States has taken in march on Great Britain in Latin America. While the London Government has been intensely occupied with problems in the Near East and in the Ruhr, the Washington Administration steadily has been mending its fences in the republics to the South, and today officials are laughing up their sleeves at reports pour in both from England and South America showing that Britain is just coming to a realization of the true state of affairs.

This Government, however, is not resting on its oars. The capacity of British statesmen to regain lost prestige for their country is appreciated too deeply for American officials to believe the position of the United States can be maintained without a vigorous and very considerable extent this explains the activity of the Harding Administration in arranging the various conferences of Latin-American delegates held in Washington recently; it explains the recent visit of Secretary of State Hughes to Rio de Janeiro, and it explains, too, the Secretary's contemplated trip to the Pan-American conference at Santiago, Chile, with way-stops at Brazil, Uruguay, Argentina and Peru.

Hughes To Visit Rio
The determination of Secretary Hughes to include Rio de Janeiro in his itinerary was almost an inevitable result of the invitation to the Brazilian President was received only a few hours before announcement of the acceptance, it must be remembered that the government of Brazil is seldom proffered until there is reasonable certainty of acceptance, and it was known that Hughes at first had felt his recent visit to the Rio de Janeiro Centennial was all that could be required for the present, so far as Brazil was concerned.

At any rate, the change in Hughes' plans was practically coincident with receipt here from London of the report made by Colonel L. W. Cole, port member of the British Mission to the Department of Overseas Trade, who headed the British Mission to the Brazilian Centennial.

After dwelling on the success of the British Mission, the extreme favorable impression created by the presence in the harbor of the British dreadnoughts Hood and Repulse, Colonel Cole sounded an earnest warning against "penetration" by the United States.

"With regard to the British Section at the Exhibition," says the summary of Colonel Cole's report, "notwithstanding the adverse exchange of the actual business resulting from the deal more than was originally anticipated. The main point gained, however, was that the Mission together with the excellent impression created by the visit of the British naval contingent, had done a great deal to engender good feeling and to restore our prestige in Brazil."

Britain "Preoccupied."
"This important factor, together with a genuine feeling of friendship toward the whole British Empire, which existed in the new Brazilian Government, constituted the most favorable conditions for the development of our interests in that vast country. There was very need for this, as owing to our pre-occupations during the war, the responsibility for advising Brazil in naval matters had passed to the United States and, in regard to the army, to France."

"Similarly," Colonel Cole pointed out, "there had been an intensive commercial penetration of Brazil by the United States during the war period. In his opinion, every possible step should be taken to protect our existing interests and to create new ones, not only in Brazil, but throughout the whole of South America."

Love Bargain Faces Test

By ROY GIBBONS
(Special to The Bee.)

CHICAGO, Feb. 27.—Are love bargains binding? Have they standing before the law? A Chicago court must pass on these questions before it can mete out justice in the strangest triangle case on record, involving.

A WIFE—Mrs. Grace Donohue, 25, over whom the alleged "love bargain" was made.

THE HUSBAND—Ray C. Donohue, 30, Buffalo electrical supply dealer, one of the parties in the supposed bargain.

THE OTHER MAN—Robert W. Hellone, 31, insurance company auditor, alleged left leg of the triangle and second party in the "love bargain."

This strange story will be unfolded in court testimony here:

When Donohue's wife, as he claims, confessed to him her love for Hellone, Donohue agreed to allow Hellone to pay court to her, he will testify.

But at the same time Donohue himself started an ardent campaign of courtship to win back the love of his own wife.

"Let the best man win," the two rivals said as the shock hands, the testimony will show.

Two years the odd romance went on. Then one day Mrs. Donohue disappeared. So did Hellone.

The wife, her husband alleges, left a letter, declaring she loved Hellone and could live with her husband no longer.

Then love surged through Donohue's veins. It overthrew the bonds of the agreement.

By tracing the baggage checks he followed the couple to Chicago, where police at his behest raided a local hotel and found them.

All three principals were borne into night court.

"Donohue beat me," the wife sobbed. "I followed you back to him. I love—I would die for this man." And she sank into Hellone's arms.

WIFE QUITTING HUSBAND.
BARES SOUL IN NOTE
Here is the "confession letter" Ray C. Donohue says he received from his wife before she, according to her husband's charge, left for Chicago with Robert W. Hellone:

"I wanted to spare you this, but you wouldn't listen to me in the other way, so I have to tell you the cold, bare facts just as they

MRS. GRACE DONOHUE

"I won her fairly," Hellone said. "He agreed to it."
It's because of the "love" agreement that the case has been postponed for final hearing till an early week in March.

The court acknowledges it must look up the law in such a matter so that fair play may be had by all.

If you were judge—how would you decide it?

BOBBED HAIR IS ON WANE
(By The Associated Press.)
RALPHIGH, N. C., Feb. 26.—To be fashionable, one must be demure—the decree of the many girls attending college in Raleigh.

The fluffy bobbed hair, so much in evidence last spring, either has been tucked under a hair-net in a dignified coiffeur, or better, has grown out. The flapper, with her short hair, is rarely seen, except on the campus, and the old-fashioned girl has taken her place.

The spring forecasts a season of color, with a grey-green predominating. Rose is a popular shade for hats, many of which are sported with brims. The handkerchiefs, which are the "rage" among college girls in North Carolina are multi-colored. They are used for many purposes—from dressy sashes and scarfs on evening gowns to lend a note of color to the sweater, coat suit or sport costume.

The hemlines, irregular during the winter, have given away to even lines. Now and then, a panel, usually placed in front of the frock, breaks the even line.

Either a bouffant or slender silhouette is given by the skirts. The afternoon frocks of tulle are quaint, with their long, tight, bodice and wide full skirts. A batik handkerchief, used as a fishnet and pocket, generously covered with spring flowers, give the desired demure effect.

The length of the skirt depends upon whether it is designed for street wear, for afternoon or evening wear. The street frocks have struck the happy medium length of just above the ankle. The evening gown still favors the long slender type.

The casualistic suits and sport wide full skirts. A batik handkerchief, used as a fishnet and pocket, generously covered with spring flowers, give the desired demure effect.

BROKERS TRIED FOR CONSPIRING

(By The Associated Press.)

BALTIMORE, Feb. 26.—Taking of testimony in the trial of C. Graham Archer and S. Burns Wilson, accused of conspiracy to defraud customers of the stock brokerage firm of Archer, Harvey and Company, was begun today after the two defendants had elected to be tried by the court. Arthur Gordon, third member of the bankrupt firm indicated for the same offense was granted trial jury and was not an active participant in the proceedings.

In his opening statement to the court States Attorney Leach declared that Archer and Wilson not only had improperly hypothesized and sold securities to customers but they even had carried on customers for margins on stocks which the firm was supposed to be carrying for them, but in reality was not.

The alleged defrauding of a couple of women was testified by Mr. Leach as a sample of the wrong-doing which he charged against Archer and Wilson and he gave illustrations of alleged fraudulent manipulation.

As illustrated by Mr. Leach, Archer got away or owed the firm $179,000. The firm had been in existence from March 1919 until it went into the hands of receivers in December 1921, owing hundreds of thousands of dollars and with assets of about $67,000.

BIG TIM MURPHY IN LEAVENWORTH

(By The Associated Press.)

LEAVENWORTH, Kans., Feb. 26.—Slowless of Leavenworth's traction system, nicknamed "Big Tim" Murphy, Chicago union labor leader, was confined on a corner on Main street here today for transportation to the federal penitentiary where he is to serve a term of four years for participation in the Dearborn Station mail robbery in Chicago.

"Say, but these street cars are slow in this burg," was the laconic comment of "Big Tim." "Think I'll have to organize a street car union here and see if we can't get a little better service. Or, I might run for mayor of this little town when I get out, who knows."

As he was being checked in by prison officials, however, Murphy grew serious and listened attentively to instructions of Warden W. I. Biddle. His replies were pithy "yes sirs." When asked as to his trade, he replied:

"I have none sir."

Expressed in blue denim, on which appeared the number 13,990, he peered through the bars from the outside waiting for a guard to open the door and let him in, and said:

"I believe I'm going to like my new home. Things look nice and new here any way. It will beat a Chicago jail any way."

Murphy told prison officials he was not particular about the kind of work assigned to him.

Every spoonful of Kellogg's Bran helps free you from toxic poisons!

Constipation is largely responsible for auto-intoxication that leads to dangerous diseases unless it is not only checked but permanently relieved. Constipation, in fact, is the basis of a majority of human ailments which could be headed off if people would only help rid themselves of this serious, health-undermining condition, which can be easily done.

Constipation must be fought to a finish—not with pills and cathartics which are dangerous to the delicate membranes of the intestines and temporary at best—but with nature's greatest cereal health food—Bran—Kellogg's Bran, which is as delicious as it is beneficial.

Kellogg's Bran is wonderful in its work because it is ALL BRAN. And, to get permanent relief, ALL BRAN is a necessity, for it is the "bulk" of Kellogg's Bran that sweeps and purifies, ridding the system of poisons and bringing conditions to normal. Eat Kellogg's Bran regularly—at least two spoonfuls daily—as much with each meal as with each case—and we guarantee that you will get relief permanently and naturally.

Kellogg's Bran is delicious. You do not have to learn to like it. Eat it as a cereal or sprinkle on or mix with hot or cold cereals. Or, cook it with hot cereals, allowing two spoonfuls for each person. Kellogg's makes wonderful muffins, griddle cakes, raisin bread, macaroons, etc. Recipes on package.

Leading hotels, clubs and restaurants serve Kellogg's Bran in individual packages. All grocers.

Harry Greb Claims He Was Framed in Fight

Tunney's Victory On Points Is Seen As Doubtful One

By ED. VAN EVERY.

Gene Tunney, a New York boy from Greenwich Village, a hero of the World War and A. E. F. boxing champion, will go down in American prize fighting history as one of the few champions to regain the honors from his conqueror. On Jan. 13, a year ago, he wrested the American light heavyweight title from Harry Greb, a Pittsburgher, by a unanimous decision. Last night the Greenwich Village boy was awarded the verdict over Greb at Madison Square Garden before nearly 15,000 spectators after fifteen hard fought rounds.

Whether Tunney was entitled to the decision is a question that will be in the air for a long time. In this writer's opinion Harry Greb should have been credited with a draw. According to our round scoring each man was deserving of six and three were even. The only reason for awarding the decision in favor of Tunney is Greb's known inability to box within the rules and regulations of the game. In plain words, last night's match was either a "job," as Harry Greb bitterly insists, or the defeated champion was guilty of the usual foul tactics. Otherwise, and this is the expression of a sincere admirer of the Greenwich Village lad, Tunney did not prove that he is the better man of the two in his fight last night.

"I was deliberately 'jobbed,'" declared Greb in his dressing rooms immediately after the fight. "I was warned several days ago that it was all fixed so that I would get the works and the title would be handed back to Tunney. I have never been disqualified in my life and yet I was warned by the referee before the fight and picked on all the way and won the majority of rounds—but Tunney gets the decision. It is a pretty sneaky won honor."

We will say at the outset that Greb in our estimation fought a fair fight than we have ever seen him put up in all the times we have watched him. This is not saying that he did not work many of his unfair tricks. He apparently is incapable of fighting a thorough fight. He has been called a "goat" by some of the best fighters in the world and has threatened to throw him out of the ring on two occasions.

Of course, if Greb fractured the ring so often that he had to be warned even more than once, he should have been disqualified.

SCHOOLFIELD IS DEFEATED TWICE BY LOCAL "Y"

The Employed Boys of the local Y. M. C. A. defeated the Juniors of the Schoolfield Y. M. C. A. in their gymnasium last night. It was a clean and interesting game all the way through. The game started out with Schoolfield in the lead but Danville began to gain and by the end of the first half the score was 12 to 3 in favor of Danville. In the last half the Danville team continued to gain until the final score which was 25 to 14.

The line up was as follows:

Danville	Ed Jordan
Schoolfield	R. F.
Floyd Jones	John Tate
James Gill	L. F.
Raymond Yates	Joseph Nodtner
Bethel Nance	Carl Noblett

DANVILLE WINS ANOTHER

A team from the Schoolfield Y. M. C. A. mixed it up with a team from the Danville Y. M. C. A. on the Municipal Hall floor last night in a fast and interesting game of basketball. The Danville boys, mostly intermeddies, came out on the long end of the score against their larger and more experienced opponents by the score of 19 to 14. Turner was high scorer for Danville, while the guarding of Ruffin and Taylor was of high order. Thompson and Snyder also played hard and fast games. McClure and Henry were the high scorers for Schoolfield. Sweat also did fine work.

The line up:

Schoolfield	Danville
McClure	Thompson
Sweatt	F.
Henry	Snyder
Holt	C.
Powell	G.
	Taylor

Field goals: McClure 2, Sweat 1, Henry 2, Thompson 2, Turner 4, Ruffin 2. Foul goals: Sweat 4, out of Thompson, 2 out of 2, Ruffin, 1 out of 1.

Money Marring Golf Says Perry Stars Get Rich

BY LAWRENCE PERRY
(Copyright, 1923, By The Bee)

NEW YORK, Feb. 27.—From Texas there came to the writer to-day a pertinent touch concerning the golf tournaments which were called off when it was found that the big promoters preferred the certainty of exhibition money to the chance of failing to get in on the tourney purses. "We are wondering down here," writes one who had interested himself in providing January and February golf for the professional of the country, "if the blazing luminaries of the links are not a trifle shortsighted. In golf, as in no other sport, the champion of today is likely to be the also ran of tomorrow. And when they become also rans will they not regret the fact that as champions they did not do everything in their power to make of these open tournaments an established custom?"

Probably so. A Sarazen, a Hagen or some other notcher, looking beyond his nose conceivably could envision the day when he could be very grateful to the promoters of Texas, Louisiana and other states for tournament opportunities even granting they would have to win or play get in on the reward. It is a long road that has no turning in sport as in other activities of life, but in sport, in golf particularly the span between the King's throne and the rocking chair of the commoner is exceedingly short.

All of which suggests action in the common interest to be taken by the professional golfers association, provided it has the power—which it may not, but if it has there be enacted a rule in conjunction with the U. S. G. A., whereby the strong and the comparatively weak will be joined indissolubly in a working agreement covering exhibition and tournament play. The Star, compelled to sacrifice a piece of exhibition change in favor of participation in a regular open tournament might storm and rage over the idea until a perspective of an ensuing year is opened to their eyes. Thus seeing they might regard the provision as benign, something akin to old age insurance.

OREGON GIANT NEARLY AS BIG AS JESS WILLARD

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 26.—Has Jack Horner 245-pound boxer, who has been dubbed the "Oregon Giant," any possibility of developing into a star of first magnitude among the big fellows in the music game today?

That question, more than any other one, has been asked by the boxing followers since Fred Winsor, who at one time, managed Jack Dempsey, uncovered the big fellow a couple of weeks back. Time alone will tell whether he has the heart to make a successful boxer among the heavies.

In the gymnasium Horner appears as though he may be developed into a good heavyweight. For a giant, with virtually no experience save what he has gathered into himself by a couple of bouts, he has more speed than Jess Willard, who is the biggest man who ever entered a ring and hits straighter than Willard and with at least as much power although he is not as big as the Kansan.

Comparative measurements reveal that Horner has a reach of 80 1/2 inches—6 1/2 inches more than Jack Dempsey and 1 1/2 inches less than Jess. He is one-half an inch taller than Willard, although his general chest measurements fall short of those of Dempsey.

His measurements, however, will increase as he trains, and trainers, as Dempsey became a physical marvel after he took the fistic game seriously. Horner has been training for the last couple of weeks and will soon be ready to make his debut before the Portland fans. It will be some time before he is ready to take a swing at the big fellows in the East, if that is in the cards for him.

Horner has youth in his favor, of course.

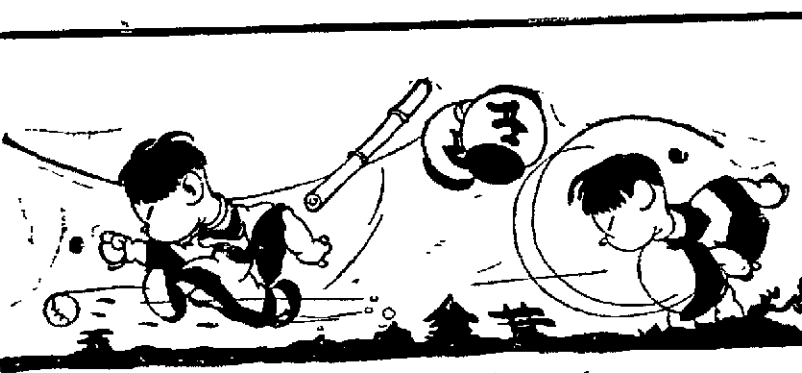

Jess Willard was past 30 when he won the world's heavyweight title while Horner will not be 22 until the middle of March. Horner, if he develops, cannot hope to be up among the contenders for the crown now worn by Dempsey for a couple of years.

Fred Winsor, who has followed the fistic game for a number of years, is very enthusiastic about the future of the "Oregon Giant."

Here are his measurements:

Age, 21; height, 6 feet 1 1/2 inches; neck, 15 1/2 inches; reach, 80 1/2 inches; chest, normal, 42 inches; expanded, 45 inches; chest, expelled, 40 inches; waist, 36 inches; hips, 43 inches; thigh, 25 inches; knee, 18 inches; calf, 15 1/2 inches; ankle, 11 inches; biceps, 14 1/2 inches; forearm, 13 inches; wrist, 9 inches; fist 8 inches; weight, 245 pounds.

HOYT SAYS INTERNATIONAL WORLD SERIES POSSIBLE

JAPANESE KIDS ARE TAKING UP BASEBALL

THE American team of select big leaguers who have just returned from "baseballing in Japan" are firmly convinced that international world series—real world series, literally—can be played in the future. The conviction is voiced in the following, as told to Billy Evans of N.Y. Service:

BY WAITE HOYT
Pitcher for the New York Americans and World Series Hero.

AN international world series is a possibility of the future. The Japs are good ball players, we found; they are learning the game fast; but at present they are far removed from major league class.

The teams that we played in Japan are about on equality with our good college teams. This I feel sure will be demonstrated this summer when the Keio University team makes a tour of the States.

Like our college teams, the weakest point in the play of the Japs is their hitting. The fielding and pitching is much farther advanced.

The Japs are very fond of baseball. Inside of 20 years they are going to be able to turn out teams that will be hard to beat.

My reason for so believing is due to the great interest that is being taken by the Japanese youngsters. Baseball is pretty close to being the national pastime with the Japs. Kids can be seen playing baseball on any open space which permits of the game even under the greatest difficulties.

These youngsters, from 5 to 10 years of age, are going to be the star players of the future in Japan. A great many of the Japs now playing the game started it late in life, a goodly number never having played ball until they went to college.

It is a well-known fact that to become proficient in baseball the player must start the game as a kid and keep at it. Style in baseball comes natural to the youngster who plays the game just as soon as he can throw. Style cannot be acquired after the muscles set.

Some day, no doubt, the Jap will debate the question of baseball supremacy.

TOMORROW: The Japs have the first set of a baseball player—courtesy.

HUGGINS DEMANDED SOUTHPAW-YANKEES LANDED PENNOCK

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—"Manager Miller Huggins insisted that he be provided with a veteran left hander. That is why the deal was made with Boston for Pennock."

That is the explanation of Secretary Barrows of the deal in which it secures Boston got much the best of the bargain.

McMillan is certainly a promising infielder. Getting a chance to play regularly he should develop fast. Boston must have a third sacker, so McMillan is sure of the chance.

Murray is a right hander with much stuff. He went good for the Yankees in the spring. Later he showed signs of wavering and from that time on did little but warm the bench.

Camp Skinner is an outfielder, who did little more than act as pinch hitter all last season.

In return the Yankees secured a veteran southpaw who is going the other way. However, for two or three years Pennock should help the Yankees and that is what Huggins wanted, immediate help.

In an effort to provide the club with a southpaw, Huggins, who did well with Atlanta, Ga., and Rochester, who hails from Sioux City, will be taken south.

In addition it is said the deal is still pending for Jake May, who was conceded to the Yankees some time ago, only to have the deal called off.

GREB CHALLENGES RETURN MATCH

(By The Associated Press)

NEW YORK, Feb. 26.—Harry Greb, Pittsburgh boxer who lost the American light heavyweight title last Friday night to Gene Tunney of New York from whom he had won it last May, filed a challenge for a return match today which was accepted by the state boxing commission.

Under the regulations of the commission Tunney must accept the challenge within six months or forfeit his title.

Chairman Mudson of the commission has publicly disagreed with the decision of the referee and judge, awarding the bout to Tunney, but said that it would have to stand.

The customary forfeit of $2,500 required of most boxers when they file challenges, was waived. Tunney said he believed Greb should not be deprived of his title for so much money for six months.

Grebb will not have difficulty in arranging another meeting with the title holder, Bill Gibson, Tunney's manager said tonight.

Morehouse Parish in Terror's Grip

BASTROP, La., Feb. 27.—In a stolid silence begotten of suppressed terror, Bastrop and Med Rouge and the countryside surrounding them, awaiting the outcome of the grand jury investigation early in March into the brutal murders by hooded terrorists of F. Watt Daniel and Thomas S. Richards.

Until the hearing is over, not even a farm can be sold. One farmer victim of a raid by a hooded band, sought to sell his property at half-price. No one would buy it—until the hearing is over.

Besides, fear of being drawn on the jury to try the defendants indicted by the present grand jury, is everywhere.

Fear Jury Service.
There is peril, farmers and villagers believe, of years to come, for a juror who votes for acquittal and double danger for one who votes for conviction.

Residents hereabouts agree it will be a hard task for the state to bring about a conviction even if it does succeed in getting an unprejudiced jury. And unless the guilty in large numbers are sent to the gallows, feuds will be born that will last to the fourth generation, it is believed here.

Meanwhile a grand jury is being selected. The jury will start to function March 1. By the 15th of that month it will begin consideration of the hooded mob murders. If indictments are returned, a trial of the defendants on criminal charges will be the next step. Here are the facts the grand jury will probe.

On July 16, 1921, F. Watt Daniel, planter's son, university graduate and war hero, together with his close friend, Thomas S. Richards, a husband and father, were kidnapped by masked men in broad daylight.

Warned to Keep Quiet.
They were told they must cease their remarks against the operation in Morehouse parish of masked bands of vigilantes. Then they were suffered to go.

Six days later, Dr. B. M. McKoin, former "reformer" mayor of Mer Rouge reported someone had attempted his life by firing into his automobile. He left Mer Rouge, claiming he feared his life.

On Aug. 24 Daniel and Richards were kidnapped by a masked horde and have not since been seen alive. A grand jury at Bastrop investigated this alleged outrage in September, but voted no indictments.

Governor Takes a Hand.
Meanwhile the affair has been called to the attention of John M. Parker, Louisiana's two-titled governor. Parker started a probe of his own, aided by Parker started the nation Dec. 19 by ordering a detachment of the State militia to Bastrop to protect the investigators.

Two days later a dynamite charge, mysteriously set off in Lake La Fourche, brought to the surface two bodies, which testimony later was thought to have identified as those of Daniel and Richards.

On the heels of this discovery came an open hearing at the Bastrop courthouse, beginning Jan. 3 of this year and lasting 20 days. More than 100 witnesses were examined.

Dr. McKoin located in Baltimore, meanwhile had returned voluntarily to Louisiana to be placed under arrest in connection with the alleged slayings. He was released on bond and attended sessions of the open hearing.

BOND ISSUE FOR ROADS

BIG QUESTION BEFORE VIRGINIA LEGISLATURE

(By The Associated Press.)

RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 25.—Leaders of both sides of the question of whether a bond issue should be authorized by the legislature for building roads began arriving today to prepare for the "extraordinary session" of the General Assembly which will convene Wednesday. Proponents and opponents of the proposal alike were aligning their forces for the fight which, it is believed, some quarters may lead to a split in the Democratic ranks second only to that of 40 years ago over readjustment of the state debt.

The first action of the legislators will be a caucus tomorrow evening of the Democratic members of the Senate for the selection of a new chairman. The joint caucus of Senate and House Democrats for the selection of candidates for the various judgeships now vacant in the state, probably will not be held until after the legislative convening.

Up to the closing hour of the office of secretary of the commonwealth today the complete returns of the special election of last Tuesday had not come in, Norfolk city and Bedford county being missing. Until these have come there can be no certificate of election issued for the new members of the Senate by the State board of canvassers.

HOUSE PASSES THREE MEASURES

(By The Associated Press.)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 25.—Three more measures were passed today by the House and sent to the Senate. One was the third deficiency bill, carrying $153,000,000, another was the Porter resolution requesting President Harding to negotiate with world governments for a restriction in the production of the opium poppy and one last and the third was a bill providing for income tax reciprocity with Canada.

Chief items in the deficiency bill are $78,000,000 for the refund of taxes illegally collected $5,500,000 for modernizing 13 dreadnaughts of the Atlantic and Pacific Fleets, $50,000,000 for scrapping naval battle ships as provided for in the treaty on naval limitation and $500,000 for an investigation of the possibilities of crude rubber production in the Philippines and Latin American.

100 PER CENT PRODUCTION IN NEW ENGLAND

(By The Associated Press.)

BOSTON, Feb. 26.—The industrial capacity of New England today is close to 100 per cent. production. The weather conditions continued to help to some extent but it is the belief among leading bankers and financiers that with the passing of extreme temperatures which naturally impose restrictions on the ability of the railroads to move goods, an even greater volume of business will be done.

HUNT'S WEEKLY LETTER

THAT PIPE AFTER 27 YEARS OF SMOKING

(Special to The Bee)

WASHINGTON, Feb. 27.—The most wonderful pipe that has found its way into Washington in recent times in the blackened and fire-charred bjar with which Senator David Reed of Pennsylvania cases the monotony of the filibuster debates.

Beside the thick and acid fumes that arise when Reed fires up his ancient smoke producer, the fog of words in the Senate chamber is an invigorating stimulant. When he lights up, therefore, the Republican chairwoman at once loses its charm for his fellow senators, all of whom suddenly seem to acquire an engaging interest in what is happening on the floor.

Why this is so you may sense when you hear that Reed's pet pipe is 27 years old and has seen steady and consistent service through all that period. Only a man from Pittsburgh probably could endure it. For beside it even the gaseous fumes of coke ovens, blast furnaces and similar smoke productions of his native city become gentle and invigorating perfumes.

Hiram Johnson, irreconcilable opponent of entangling alliances with European nations, foreseeing a renewal of the drive to commit the United States to participation in the League of Nations, has decided to prepare against that time by getting a little first-hand information on European conditions.

He's going to spend his Senate vacation abroad.

Hercutofore all Hiram's anti-European speeches have been second-hand, so to speak. For he never has been in Europe. This will be his first time over.

Wherefore considerable interest has been indicated in what he may learn or unlearn by his first-hand contact. Whatever the effect of his sojourn abroad may be on his views however, we will have to wait for him to tell us after the Senate convenes next December. For he has served notice to that effect.

"I am not going to do any writing. I am not going to make any speech. I am not going to be interviewed in Europe, nor when I return."

"Dixie Flyer" Is Wrecked and One Man Is Killed

(By The Associated Press)

CALHOUN, Ga., Feb. 26.—The second section of the "Dixie Flyer" northbound tourist train from Jacksonville to Chicago, plunging through a terrific rain storm one mile south of here late today, jumped the track and one locomotive and seven coaches were overturned. The official report given out by officials of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railroad on which road, the "Dixie" was operating said two persons were killed and thirteen injured.

The train was being hauled by two mountain type locomotives. It was reported here two hours later and spectators say the last before the train hit a sharp and almost complete S turn where the accident occurred, it was proceeding at a speed estimated at 60 miles an hour.

The second locomotive jumped the track, tore itself a loss from the pilot engine and before it could check itself had plunged down into a shallow ditch along side the tracks, pulling seven of the twelve express, mail, baggage and passenger coaches with it. The pullmans and the first locomotive remained upright.

Approximately three hundred yards of track was torn up and it will be several hours, officials said, before traffic can be resumed. Trainmen said that the cause of the accident was probably due to spreading rails.

Judge M. C. Tarver of the Superior Court here and a grand jury investigation of the wreck of the "Flyer" late today. The grand jury was in session at the time and the court re-

As a good American, Johnson will sail on the shipping board liner, George Washington, leaving New York March 10.

This insures, one commentator remarks, that the trip over "will be high and dry."

Johnson's trip to Europe, however, is causing less speculation than the coming visit of Senator Borah to Russia.

Borah is less likely to be reticent in regard to his opinions, both while abroad and when he gets home. A more vigorous fight by him both for recognition of Russia and for an international economic and armament conference may reasonably be expected when Congress convenes again.

"I never have been able to understand the shivering fear which some people in this country entertain toward Russia," Borah says. "Isn't it time to take some steps to re-establish friendly relations among nations?"

If by recognition of Russia, we can hold our friendship and deal with her in a friendly way it may be the means by which the conditions which now threaten war can be averted."

Congressional animosities probably never reached a higher stage of bitterness than at the close of this session. What with an anti-administration bloc in the Senate tying up the President's pet measures and with the Senate filibuster insuring the loss of many bills already favorably acted on by the House, tempers in both bodies are close to the breaking point. Here's a case in point.

I asked Congressman Edward C. Little of Kansas about the status of his bill redefining the statutes of the United States, which was passed by the House early in this Congress—in May, 1921.

For a minute I thought he'd have an apoplexy. Finally he managed to stammer:

"It's tied up by the refusal of a blanket-bill senatorial motion to report it out of committee. And you can quote me to that effect, too."

Which, as you may see, indicates a state of most extreme and loving friendliness between fellow Republicans.

charged the jurors to the effect that information had been furnished that the train was traveling at an excessive rate of speed when the accident occurred, and in the event this was true, the engineers should be indicted for manslaughter.

All the passengers injured were occupants of a day coach.

At a late hour tonight wrecking crews were making fast headway clearing up the wreckage.

ATLANTA, Ga., Feb. 26.—Two persons killed and fourteen injured, none seriously, resulted from the wreck of the second section of the Dixie Flyer, fast northbound passenger train today at McDaniel's Crossing near Calhoun, Georgia, according to an official report to the office here of the Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis Railroad. The dead were:

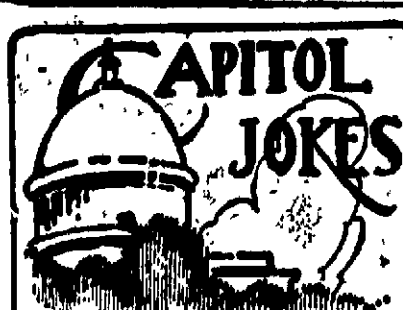

D. K. Doak, fireman, Inman, Yards Atlanta and T. H. Guiley, passenger, 2829 Washington Avenue, St. Louis.

The injured were:

H. L. Blakeley, Union City, Tenn.; Dena Acadia, Tampa, Fla.; Hugo Greenwald, 2855 North Kedzie Avenue, Chicago; C. W. Francis, 42 Rutledge Avenue, Nashville, Tenn.; David Wilcox, Lawrenceburg, Tenn.; W. A. Duzant, West Salem, Ill.; M. M. Ralph, Hartford, Ky. and John Grubbs, Wilson, Mo.

A. J. Thomas, Blainstown, Iowa; Mrs. J. E. Dvits, Ringgold, Ga.; Will Harding, Mufreesboro, Tenn.; J. R. Abrams, Forstye, Ga. and J. E. Klausbauch, Mahanet, Ills.

SEATTLE, Feb. 26.—Oregon and Washington Lumber Mills today are slowly recovering from the effects of the storms which reduced production caries this month. According to the latest report, output today is about 25 per cent. below normal capacity while new business accepted is over eighty per cent. above production.

A colored boy thought he saw a ghost in a graveyard and started to go elsewhere rapidly. He hadn't gone more than a mile or two before a big white man stuck a gun into his ribs and exclaimed:
"Whon, Bastards! Where you goin' to?"
"White man," replied the Ethiopian youth. "White man, I ain't goin' to nowhere, I'm just goin' FROM where I was at!"

Advocate Stop to Immigration

(By The Associated Press)

CLEVELAND, Feb. 26.—Delegations to the department of superintendence, National Education Association's annual convention held several meetings today in which speakers advocated putting a stop to immigration; favored President Harding's organization bill which would create a new department in the government to be known as the Department of Education and Welfare and started a fight for higher salaries for school superintendents.

The suggestion that immigration be stopped came from Alvin M. Owsley, national commander of the American Legion, who at the same time offered his objection to the educators as an instrument to be used in the building of patriotism.

John G. Tigert, United States Commissioner of Education, assigned by President Harding to represent the administration in the department of education, which would place a secretary of education and welfare in the President's cabinet.

The fight for higher salaries for school superintendents was opened in an address by Dr. J. H. Owens, president of the National Education Association, by Dr. N. L. Englehardt of the Teachers' College, Columbia University, New York. He pleaded for higher salaries for superintendents to attract the other professions receive much higher salaries and do not demand as much study and ability. He pointed out that living costs have risen 100 per cent. since 1913 but that school superintendents' salaries have risen an average of only 41 per cent.

The first resolution was adopted commended the appropriate intentions of Congress to pass a bill making the school system of Washington, D. C. a model one, expressed the association's favor of this plan also urged Congress to pass the teachers' salary bill, which will raise the salaries of Washington teachers.

Henry Turner Bailey, dean of the Cleveland School of Art speaking at tonight's meeting pleaded for the retention of such funds as art and music in the curriculum that future citizens may be something more than merely efficient workmen.

Tonight's program was devoted to "general problems in education and citizenship."

Mr. Owens said a national policy of education is being created by the National Education Association.

"No private institution, no great foundation or endowment, no higher institution is competent to furnish the leadership or formulate the policies for the public schools," he said, adding that "education, even in the lower schools, demands a special training and the command of special technique."

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 26.—In 1919 the current expenses for public education in the United States amounted to $290,500,000. In 1920 $370,930,000 was spent for the current expenses of public schools. These figures were given the Department of Superintendence of the National Education Association today by Dr. George D. Owens of New York. "During the period there was a very great change in the purchasing power of the dollar, as well as an increase of thirty per cent. in the number of days of schooling provided and the further fact of a very large increase in attendance in the upper part of the school system where costs are necessarily high," continued Dr. Owens.

"No less interesting than the aggregate figures are the comparisons which have been instituted among the several communities within a single state. In the State of New York, where an exact study has been made, for the year 1920-21 in one community the current expense per pupil in elementary schools was $26. In another community within the same state the current expense was $100. The property tax furnished almost all of the revenue for schools in the State of New York. The variations in the equitized assessed value of property per capita is as great as that shown for school expenditures. Within the main the wealthier communities spend the larger amount per pupil it often happens that poor school districts have the higher tax rates.

"The scheme of and provided by the State of New York neither equalizes the support provided for education, nor the burden of taxation born by the several communities. If opportunity and burden are to be equalized, the state must levy a tax upon the property or income of all of the people, or in some other manner secure revenues by a system of taxation which bears with equal weight upon all.

"The result that we seek to achieve within the state with respect to the equalization of educational opportunities can be brought about only by providing for state support. We have been moving in this direction. In one state, Delaware, complete state support has been instituted."

RAID STILL IN MOUNTAIN VALLEY

(By The Associated Press)
RICHMOND, Va., Feb. 25.—State prohibition agents today announced the capture of a dozen or more stills in various sections of the state during the past few days.
The raids included the seizure of a 150 gallon copper still in Franklin county; a moonshiner's outfit and 1,800 gallons of beer in Endicott; 125 gallon still in Halifax county; two still of 40 and 75 gallon capacities in Amherst county; 200 gallon wood and copper still and 100 gallon white metal still in Mountain Valley, Henry county; and five other outfits ranging in capacities from four to 40 gallons.
In addition to the raids by State forces, four federal agents late Saturday captured what was said to be one of the most complete outfits ever taken in Virginia. The officers raided a place in Surry county and confiscated a wagon, two 75 gallon stills, 2,000 gallons of mash, eight fermenting standards, eight cases of fruit jars and other paraphernalia. The still was warm, the officers said, but the operator escaped.
